

The Best Bars in San Francisco

An editor's guide to drinking around town

By Kevin Alexander

Best for Work: Though the bar at Prospect gets an honorable mention for their Reckless Abandon cocktail (seriously, it has gin and root beer and black pepper and other stuff) and Pasilla chili cheese dip, I give the nod to Press Club. The all-wood interior will make you look important and classy, and the beer menu includes rare finds like easy-to-pronounce HaandBryggeriet "Krekling" ale from Norway, and so many of the sour beers that the CEOs of major companies are reported to love.